Queen of the Gemfields Wound Care Seminar
Anakie, Qld | 18 & 19 May 2017

If you have ever wanted an outback adventure, then join us in the Gemfields of Central Queensland and be a part of our Queen of the Gemfields Wound Care Seminar.

This would be an exciting activity to share with friends and family while you also gain valuable wound care education and CPD hours for your Evidence Portfolio.

This seminar is divided over 2 days and you can choose to attend one or both days.

Day 1: Wound Assessment and Launch of the NfN Comprehensive Wound Assessment Tool

Day 2: Key aspects of Best Practice Chronic Wound Care Management.

On the evening of day one, there’s an optional dinner you may like to attend, giving you the opportunity to mingle with the other fabulous attendees as well as Cheryl and Sue.

The Gemfields of Central Queensland are scattered around the towns of Emerald, Sapphire, Comet, Rubyvale, and Anakie. This area is renowned for exceptional sapphires and other gem stones.

You can explore all that the region has to offer, including fossicking for your own special piece of the Gemfields as well as meeting your professional development requirement of keeping up to date with the latest best practice guidelines in wound management.

May is a lovely time to visit the area – the autumn temperatures and weather in general are very pleasant.

What a great way to finish off your CPD year!

Our Presenter

Cheryl Dezotti is a Director and Nurse Education Specialist at the Nurses for Nurses Network. Cheryl co-created and administers this Network to provide an online platform for Nurses to meet their continuing professional development requirements. She is also the editor, and major contributor, of the Nursing News Blog associated with this Network.

Cheryl's varied and interesting career highlights include clinical experience in acute surgical, medical, and renal dialysis. The completion of her Master's degree in Quality in Health Care led to senior management roles in both the acute and aged care sectors, later leading to her appointment as a Nurse Advisor and Administrator with the Department of Health and Ageing.

Cheryl has worked extensively in the field of education in a number of healthcare and university settings. She has a passion for wound care and has lectured widely on the subject in both Australia and Internationally. This passion has led her to author a wound assessment book as well as creating a post graduate wound care course.

Cheryl's aim is to make a difference to the recipients of health care and she believes that a positive outcome for the patient can only be achieved if Nurses keep up to date with best practice guidelines and their practical application in the workplace.
